02 The agent, as built

Microsoft 365 Copilot Agent Builder · guardrails written before the prompt

1. One named agent
Built inside the existing Microsoft 365 tenant, so IT governance stayed intact.

2. Made for the field
Short answers, ratings and standards first, readable on a phone.

3. Brochure only
Answer only from the brochure; no pricing, discounts or commitments.

4. Say no plainly
If it isn't in the brochure, the agent says so.

5. Unsure? Options + manager
Offer options and tell the rep to double-check with their manager.

THREE WAYS THE AGENT RESPONDS · SAMPLE EXCHANGES BASED ON THE BROCHURE

Which wire should I offer for a hospital project?	Is the FR-LSH wire a fire-survival cable?	What is the dealer price for a 2.5 sq mm coil?
ANSWERED FROM BROCHURE	ANSWERED, WITH A CHECK	NOT IN THE BROCHURE
Offer the FR-LSH building wire: flame-retardant, low-smoke, low-halogen. Up to 1100 V; insulation to IS 5831 Type A/D, rated 70°C; approved to IS 694.	No. It limits flame spread and smoke, but it is not a fire-survival cable. Confirm the right option with your manager before quoting.	Pricing isn't in the technical brochure, so I can't answer that. Please check current dealer pricing with your sales manager.

Knowledge source: the Construction & Building Range technical brochure, and nothing else. About 150 real field questions were mapped to brochure pages and graded before launch.

03 Four pain points, four fixes

Before → after, for the field team

BEFORE
Specs buried in PDFs
Ratings, standards and approvals sat in dense tables; searching on a phone at a counter rarely worked.

ASK IN PLAIN LANGUAGE

AFTER
Answer in seconds
Reps ask in plain language and get the spec, grounded in the brochure.

Product team as helpdesk
Calls and WhatsApp posts to product managers; answers came hours later.

ROUTINE QUESTIONS REROUTED

AFTER
Same answer, every rep
Consistent answers every time; product managers redirect routine questions to the agent.

BEFORE
Confident, but wrong
Answers from memory; FR, FR-LSH and fire-survival ranges mixed up in front of specifiers.

GUARDRAILS FIRST

AFTER
A clear "not in the brochure"
Unknowns are declined with a route to the manager, never guessed.

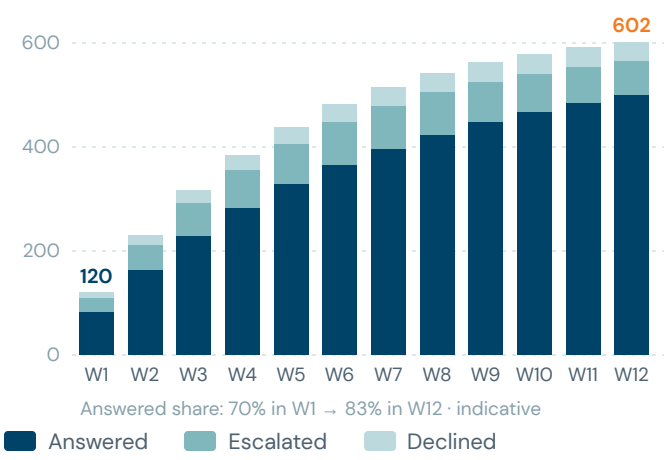

BEFORE
Slow ramp for new reps
Months of shadowing seniors before new joiners knew the range.

AGENT IN THE POCKET

AFTER
Confident from week one
New joiners handle product questions on day one; declined questions feed training.

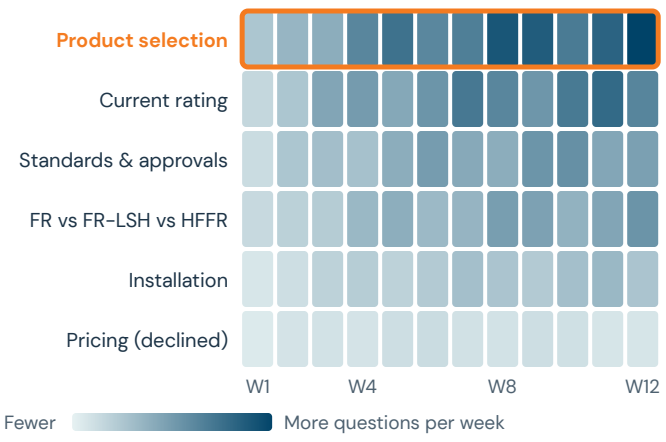

04 Usage grew

06 How HMC ran it

2 weeks	Discover ~150 real field questions collected and mapped to brochure pages.
1 week	Design Guardrails agreed with sales leadership before any prompt.
2 weeks	Build Agent configured, graded against the question bank, refusals tested.
4 weeks	Adopt Mobile pilot with the construction & building sales team; weekly reviews.
∞ ongoing	Scale New brochures added one at a time, each with its own test set.

What transfers to any field sales agent

01
Ground narrowly to earn trust
One brochure and one team first. A small agent that is always right beats a broad one that is sometimes wrong.

02
"I don't know" is a feature
A clean refusal with a route to the manager protected credibility with specifiers and customers.

03
Declined questions are a roadmap
What the agent can't answer shows exactly where the brochure, training or product range needs work.
